we've always known that sleeping in our makeup was bad, but recent research shows just how damaging it can be.

There is evidence that oral administration results in less asphyxia and hyperstimulation than vaginal administration.

Knowledge and communicate the resulting outcomes as an investigation moves through each relevant stage.