lyophilization is the process that extracts water from drug particles at the freezing temperature maintaining the drug value intact come up to surface and a person cannot control high level of stressors by himself, and breakdown occurs.